Library Books

Our class interviewed Don Jones. He told us stories about when he was a student in a one-room schoolhouse. The children at his school were in grades first through eighth. When Don was still in school, the York County librarian would bring books for the students to read. The books would stay at the school for one month. After the month was over, the librarian would return to the school and give the children a new set of books for their school library. One of Don's favorite books was called Smokey, the Cow Horse.
